Sita Naik, is an eminent Clinical Immunologist and medical educationist, who obtained her undergraduate training at Maulana Azad Medical College, New Delhi and post-graduate training in Pathology at Postgraduate Institute of Medical Education and Research (PGIMER), Chandigarh. She had post-doctoral training in Transplantation Immunology at the National Institutes of Health, USA. She then joined the faculty of the Department of Immunopathology at PGIMER, Chandigarh. Subsequently, she moved to the Seth G S Medical College in Mumbai where she established a Clinical Immunology Laboratory.

In 1987, she joined the faculty of newly established Sanjay Gandhi Postgraduate Institute of Medical Sciences (SGPGIMS), Lucknow which was the first medical Institution in the country to have a dedicated Department of Immunology. She headed the Department for many years and has trained over 30 specialists in Immunology and Rheumatology. She also had an active research career, having guided 15 PhD students and publishing extensively in national and international peer reviewed journals. She was Dean of the SGPGI from 2007 - 09. Prof Naik has been the Section Editor for "Immunology" in the last 3 editions of API Textbook of Medicine. In recognition of her contribution to Medical Education, she served as Member of the Governing Body of Medial Council of India in 2010-11. At MCI, she was deeply involved in the restructuring of the undergraduate medical curriculum. Prof. Naik has a keen interest in health care delivery especially from the perspective of the training of health care professionals to meet societal needs.

Through her career she has completed over 25 research projects funded by National (ICMR, DST, DBT) and international (WHO, NIH) agencies and has been recipient of numerous travel awards including the INSA Visiting Professorship to visit Germany in 2007. She has published 145 peer reviewed research papers and contributed 36 book chapters. In recognition of her contribution she has been elected Fellow of National Academy of Medical Sciences.

Her Current Affiliation is Advisor, Chairman Task Force, Apollo Hospitals Educational & Research Foundation.
